A QUESTION

Often propounded to a real estate man than any other "Is there any show for selling my farm or my city property at the present time?"

There Is But One Answer to the interrogation, and

IT IS THIS

First sift your own feelings and circumstances until you can positively decide whether you want to sell or not, and in the event that you do, put a price on it that represents a fair value of your property and at which you are willing to sell and then go to a real estate firm that are selling property, and such a firm is that of

CLARKSON IS TO LEAD.

The Noted Iowa President of the Republican League.

THE PROCEEDINGS AT CINCINNATI.

A Letter from President Harrison Received with Cheers—Synopsis of the Resolutions Adopted—Objection to the Immigration Clause.

THE REPUBLICAN ADDRESS.

CINCINNATI, April 23.—The league convention was late in assembling Wednesday and many delegates were not in the hall when President Thurston called the convention to order. Excitement followed when a big box of American tin plates, forwarded by Congressman Niedringhaus, of St.
Louis, was placed on the stage and a lively scramble for possession of the brilliant souvenirs followed. The secretary then read letters received.
Among the letters read was the following:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, April 13.—Hon. John M. Thurston, President, etc., Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th inst., inviting me to attend the fourth annual convention of the Republican league clubs to be held at Cincinnati April 21 and 22. Your letter found me in the press of business incident to a contemplated trip to the Pacific coast, upon which I shall start in a few hours. I request that I shall be unable either to attend the convention or to give by letter any extended counsel. The conventions of the republican party and the legislation of the last congress have, however, very clearly defined and very courageously presented the issues upon which the next contest must be waged. To those conventions' declarations I gave the assent of a deep conviction, and to the important legislation of the last congress my earnest support. If the people of the United States will now give the world to understand that the protection and enlargement of our domestic industries, the extension of our foreign trade by reciprocal arrangements not inconsistent with a protective policy, and the revival of our financials by the methods that all other nations use in our settled policy, we will speedily, I am sure, realize a marvelous development and a prosperous property. I am confident that your convention may in all respects successful, I am very truly yours, BENJAMIN HARRISON.

The reading was punctuated with frequent applause, and when the letter was announced from the president of the United States the delegates cheered and again, and finally rose en masse, waving handkerchiefs and papers and cheering until the great hall reverberated with enthusiastic applause.

Other letters read were from Congressman Boutelle, Senator Manderson and Andrew D. White, of New York; ex-Senator Sherman, Secretaries Foster and Proctor, Congressman Ray of New York, W. Stockbridge, Jr., and Gen. R. A. Alger.

The chair called for the report of the committee on resolutions. The resolutions declare the death of Gen. Sherman and Secretary Windom; endorse the wise and statesmanlike administration of the President Harrison, and express the confidence in the republicans of the last house, declare for protection and favor reciprocity; oppose any attempt to debase the coin of the country, but demand such an increase of the currency as can be made with due regard to the best interests of the country; declare that soldiers and sailors who served the country shall not be forgotten by the republican party; recommend legislation prohibiting the immigration of paupers and criminals and persons so alien from us in ideas and habits of thought that they cannot be assimilated in the body politic; affirm the right of every citizen of this country, no matter who he may be, to cast one ballot and have it fairly counted, and declare the purpose of the republican league to be the dissemination of republican principles.

A delegate rather hotly protested against what he claimed to be discrimination against foreign-born citizens in the clause pertaining to immigration.
He was ably seconded by a delegate from Wisconsin, who called attention to the fact that on such a plea as the one involved in this case the democrats had been able to carry Wisconsin and reverse the former republican majority of 25,000 in that state. Gen. Fairchild, of Wisconsin, endorsed the statement and implored the convention to listen to the chairman. The chairman of the committee on resolutions suggested that the objectionable words: "Persons so alien from us in ideas and habits of thought that they cannot be assimilated in the body politic," be stricken out. Mr. Campbell, of New York, objected on the ground that the republican party should not defeat, if necessary, for what it believes to be right. The motion to strike out the objectionable words was carried on a division. The rest of the resolution was agreed to and the resolutions as reported were adopted.

The convention of Iowa and W.
W. Tracy, of Illinois, were placed in nomination for league president. Mr.
Thurston, of Nebraska, left the chair and said that the welfare of the league demanded that a man should be at the head of it who has the confidence of the republican party and is known to be a thorough organizer.
Clarkson, he said, was one of the original members of the league and had at all times stood by it, and had an eye single to the good of the republican party. Mr.
Thurston's speech was an earnest plea for the election of Clarkson. Mr. Ryan, of Missouri, advocated Mr. Clarkson's election. Mr. Matthews, of Illinois, withdrew the name of Mr. Tracy, and moved that Mr. Clarkson be nominated by acclamation. The motion was carried amid cheering.

Being now out of office President Thurston named Mr. Tracy for president pro tem. He was elected and thanked the convention for the compliment. The election of secretary elicted some feeling. New York wanted the present incumbent, Mr. Humphrey, to remain. Wisconsin joined in Humphrey's behalf. Pennsylvania somewhat fiercely resented what looked like dictation and named Theodore Chaub, Ohio following by naming J. J.
Steuber. The vote was so close that an election was doubted on the first ballot, but changes began and ended in the choice of Mr. Humphrey. Phineas Lounsbury, of Connecticut, was re-elected treasurer.

The committee reported in favor of

TO CIRCULATE SMALL COINS.

Secretary Foster's Plan to Secure the Assistance of Banks.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Secretary Foster is considering a new plan for getting the subsidiary coin into circulation and keeping it in circulation. One of the New York banks, which is a government depository to the amount of $200,000, has offered to take $5,000 monthly in subsidiary coin, provided it be allowed to increase its holdings of the 4 per cents. Four per cents are now above $11.20. They are accepted by the government from the banks in which United States funds are deposited as security up to $1.10. The New York bank's proposition is that the 4 per cents be taken as security up to $1.15. As there is not much probability that the 4 per cents will go below $1.20, Secretary Foster is inclined to believe that they might be accepted from the depositories as security on government funds up to $1.15, but he does not expect to give this advantage without some concessions in return, and the offer of the New York bank to help keep the subsidiary coin in circulation by taking a stated amount monthly about meets his idea of a fair arrangement. Should the government bank depositories throughout the country show a disposition to do this they would probably be accommodated. It would require a general concurrence of action to make the plan successful and the secretary will wait till he hears from a number of the banks before taking steps to carry out the plan.

The Baseball Season Now Fairly Under Way—The League Clubs Play Their First

Burial of Congressman Ford.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 23.—
The funeral of Congressman Mc-Bourne H. Ford was held Wednesday and was very largely attended. The body, incased in a magnificent casket, was escorted to the city hall by Daisy lodge of Elks in the morning and there lay in state from 12:30 p. m. to Friday 25-000 people passed by to take a last look at the dead. The funeral services were conducted at the house by Rev. Dr.
Charles Fluhrer. A procession over a mile in length, with many on foot, followed the hearse to the cemetery, where the internment was under masonic auspices. The state legislature, both the house and senate, attended in a body. All the state officers save Gov.
Winans were present.

Many Horses Burned.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 23.—Fire at midnight Wednesday night completely destroyed the livery barns of J. B.
Cook & Son with all contents. Sixty horses and a large number of hacks, sleighs, etc., were consumed. The loss on building is $10,000 and on horses and conveyances $20,000, and the insurance is $20,000. The four white horses and fire engine belonging to the "One of the Bravest" company, now playing at the Grand opera house, were burned, having just been stable after the evening performance.

Fires in Colorado Cities.

DENVER, Col., April 23.—Davis & Cresswell's big machine house, brass and type foundry was destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Loss, $150,000.

LEADVILLE, Col., April 23.—At a fire Wednesday morning caused by the explosion of a lamp two dwelling houses were burned. Loss, $5,000. During the fire some giant powder in the house exploded, seriously injuring Ald. C. C.
Joy, William McNally and John Caffney.

Investigation of the Mafia Massacre.

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—The grand jury finished the examination of the 270 witnesses summoned in the Mafia case Wednesday and adjourned until Friday. Their report is due at any time, though, and will certainly be of a startling and sensational character. Indictments will probably be presented to the court against O'Malley and the bribed juryman.

Not Insane.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Joseph Mulhat-ton, the famous story-teller and drummer, will not have to end his days in a madhouse. The physicians have decided he is not insane, and he has been released from the detention hospital.

Two Garsmen Drowned.

HAMILTON, Ont., April 23.—F. W.
Oxenham and S. Campbell, of the Me-Leander rowing club, were drowned in Hamilton bay while out in a training boat.

The Old Lady (dead)—Has your grandfather quit smoking yet? The last time I saw him he told me he was going to do so soon.

Her Young Visitor—My grand father died last week.

The Old Lady (still dead)—Yes? Has he quit smoking yet?—Jury.

A Breach of Promise Case.

Lawyer—You claim that you are insane when you proposed to her?

Defendant—Yes, sir.

"Can you prove it?"

"Yes, sir."

"How?"

"By producing the plaintiff in court and letting the jury look at her."—Night.

A Suitable Dog.

Lady—I wish to select a pet dog.
Dealer—Live in the city, I suppose, sum?

"Yes, I live in a flat."

"Then I would advise an Italian greyhound, munn. No matter how much you feed a greyhound he always stays fatter."—N. Y. Weekly.

RIOT ON IN DETROIT.

Strikers Tear Up the Street Railway Tracks.

TENANTS RESISTING THE EVICTORS.

They Attack a Sheriff and His Deputies, Who Fire Upon Them—A Woman Killed and Several Men Are Wounded.

DETROIT, April 23.—[Special]—Street car strikers in Detroit began tearing up the rails early this morning and destroyed other railroad property. The police are unable to restrain the crowd and it is feared there will be much violence this evening.

FEMALES FIGHT LIKE TIGERS.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 23.—Threats have been turned to violence and violence has again caused death in the coke region. With the result that Company G has been called to the scene of the trouble and all is in a ferment.
The county officers went to the Adelaide Wednesday morning, where they made two evictions after a great deal of trouble and opposition. They were then overpowered by the strikers and driven away. Reinforced by Sheriff McCormick and a large force the deputies returned. A pitched battle took place between the sheriff's posse and about 300 Hungarian men and women, in which a Hungarian girl was killed and others injured, among whom were several deputies.

The battle occurred about 3 o'clock in the afternoon while the members of Company C were lunching at the boiler house. The deputies were trying to keep the "Huns" from carrying back the household goods which had been thrown out of the houses in the forenoon. A big, strong "Hun" was fighting with the deputies when Sheriff McCormick started to assist them.
The "Hun" saw him coming and tried to shoot. The girl, who was killed

A not only paroled by the "broad note" of London was barely averted in Milwaukee the other day. And it all came from a typographical error. A local paper stated that "beer" had advanced in price when it merely meant beef.

It becomes more and more apparent that the proposition to compromise the treasury suits came from Chairman Wall. The boss has evidently heard of the colored woman who washed more than she could hang out.

books.

THE DETROIT STRIKE.

Street-Car Traffic Almost Entirely Suspended—The Idle Workmen Growing Violent.

DETROIT, Mich., April 23.—Contrary to general expectations the street-car strikers showed up strong Wednesday morning. Although the company got the majority of its cars started as usual the crews did not make more than one trip, being unable to withstand the pressure put upon them by the strikers. As the day passed the cars became less frequent and at noon traffic was almost totally suspended.
The strikers are getting more violent and boisterous hourly. Several teams were unhitched and driven off and the cars overturned on the tracks during the morning. Only one case of personal violence is reported. A striker boarded a car and engaged the driver in a dispute, which resulted in a scuffle, and both men fell off the platform. They were severely hurt. Several mild collisions with the police have occurred.

Ancestors of the Physician.
Diseases were supposed in ancient times to be caused directly by the displeasure of the gods, a belief that has not yet disappeared from the minds of savage tribes. Evil spirits also played their part, the two beliefs being connected more or less intimately. Hence the intervention of priests and kings, to whom attached a sacred character, and the idea that the latter could cure by touch which prevailed until a recent date. The faith in the healing principle presumed to emanate from the royal person was really part and parcel of the belief in the divine right of kings, that is, their right to rule regardless of the wishes of their subjects.

From all these causes came that mixture of superstition, metaphysics and medicine that characterized the practice of the healing art in the middle ages, when doctors wore gowns and a special form of head covering and talked indifferently of religion, astrology and medicine. Astrologers made head and tail of the stars, and the constellations, and both dealt to a certain extent in remedies that depended rather on tradition than on science. From all these germs, with something of the drugstore and the barber—who were in those old times more or less connected with medicine—threw in, came the full fledged physician of today.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Good Place to Keep Flowers.
"Men really have more gumption than we give them credit for," commented a young woman the other day, with the air of having made a remark; "Yesterday afternoon a man I know asked me to stop with him at a florist's, and select an arrangement for a bouquet to wear at a dance last evening. I did, and when one was chosen I was surprised to see him reject the paper which the florist put over it, take off his hat, and carefully tucked the delicate blossom in the lining band. 'I always carry my own flowers,' he explained, and I thought it quite a clever device."—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Cheering Word for the Husband.
One of these days things may work round again to an appreciation of the Present Man as distinguished from the Coming Woman, who makes so large a figure in literature. Take him all in all the Helpful Husband is about the finest character of the day. There has been a certain exaltation for the woman in stepping outside her home, but for the man, what patience, what subduing of pride, what building up of new ideals! For once the character of the sexes seem to be reversed; the bravery of adventure is the woman's, the watching for results the man's.

Where can one find a finer development of character than in men, and they are not few in number, who, against their desires, against their instincts, against their reason, are letting their wives support themselves in marriage, are even urging them and aiding them to walk in directions which it pains them to see them walk, because they are frightened enough or loving and loyal enough to leave even the woman who is dearest to them to work out her own salvation? The man who does this knows that he is misunderstood, knows that he is criticised, and his part—the silent part—is quite as plucky as many of the most applauded displays of feminine energy and enterprise.—New York Recorder.

Cat Against Fox.
One early morning during a snowstorm, I was starting for the hills. I noticed the footprints of a cat upon the fresh snow. I guessed the cat was my own, a strong, black tom. Curious to know how far his peregrinations might have extended, I made up my mind to find out, if possible. I had not, however, followed the track more than a few hundred yards when I came upon what appeared to have been a desperate struggle, and which at first sight I took to be the marks of puss and an unfortunate hare or rabbit, but upon close examination I found the antagonist must have been a fox.

The combat, as long as it lasted, must have been a severe one, as it was quite clear from the marks on the snow that one or both of the animals were down several times. I am inclined to believe that Reynard came off second best in the affair, as it could be seen that he retreated back the way he came, whereas puss continued on his wanderings until he entered a thick plantation, where I had to give up pursuit. When I got home I found the cat had got home before me, and was apparently none the worse for his morning's adventure.—Land and Water.

Liked Going Out.
"What part of the service did you like best?" queried Mrs. Roreos after church.

"The recessional," returned Mr. R.—Puck.

"So's Clock" in Flowers.
A horological achievement in landscape gardening is that of one of the florists in charge of the flora of the public parks in Chicago.

The flowerbed is laid out on the points of the compass in the form of a huge semi-circle, and folia and flowers are grown in it in such a manner as to render it a perfect sun dial, or, as the classical inventor expresses it, "So's clock." A slab of stone of proper shape is set in the center of the dial and casts the shadow by which the time is read.

The idea is not strictly a novel one. Sun dials composed of growing flowers and foliage have been made in Europe, and it is not improbable that in the days of the greatest popularity of these timepieces floral ones were of frequent occurrence.—Jewelers Weekly.

Death of James C. Gooch.
FOOTVILLE, April 22.—After a long and eventful life of more than four-score years, James C. Gooch passed to his final reward, at his home just east of this village, leaving behind him a memory fragrant with good deed and holy precept. Calmly and peacefully he awaited the end. He expressed himself as being ready and willing to go, and although somewhat reluctant to part with his loved ones here, he anxiously longed for the time to come when he should be at rest with his Maker.

Two weeks ago he was taken with what proved to be his fatal illness. He suffered from an attack of pneumonia, and his already weakened constitution had not the vitality to overcome the disease. At 6 o'clock on Friday evening, April 17, his weary spirit took its flight, and he was returned to the long Father who sent him to this world.

Mr. Gooch was born in Vermont in 1810. He was twice married; first in 1836, his wife dying in 1852, leaving six children—Helen M., of Footville; George, of New York; Albert, of Chicago; and Charles of Colorado; Emma, of St. Louis; and Henry, of San Francisco, Cal. He married again in 1854 Miss Elizabeth B. Smith, who survives him. He was a member of the Baptist church of this village, and was a devoted and successful farmer.

His funeral will be held at 10 o'clock on Friday morning, April 19, at his home, with burial in the cemetery.

WAINWRIGHT AS VIOLA.

"Twelfth Night Presented to a Delighted Audience."

A NOTABLE PRODUCTION.

Theatrical Attractions to be Presented to Janesville Play-Goers in the Next Few Days—Ole Oleson and the Sea King Underlined.

In selecting "Twelfth Night" for her present tour Miss Marie Wainwright chose wisely. The character of Viola is one of the most pleasing of all Shakespeare's heroines. It is one of passionate tenderness, but of maidenly refinement as well. As Viola is one of the sweetest of Shakespeare's women, so the play in which she is set is one of his best and brightest comedies. Its humor is as laughable, especially in the duel and coronation scenes, as are those of the funniest of modern slap-dash farce comedies, and when it is over the satisfaction remains of having laughed at something laughable and worthy.

Miss Wainwright labored last evening under some disadvantages. The clear reading of her lines was marred by the cold from which she suffered. The one thus given seemed taken by others of the company for poor enunciation robbed many of the subtler passages of their force. Of the first act this was especially true, the grace and humor of the lines being at times almost lost. As a whole, however, there was little to criticize; much to commend.

Miss Wainwright differs from many who have attempted the role of Viola in her interpretation of the first act. She enters Olivia's audience chamber with the assurance of a privileged visitor rather than with the hesitancy and deference of a courtier coming among unfriendly hearers on a most delicate mission. It is in the second act that she is most happy. It must be a story heart that can listen unmoved to her delivery of the lines beginning, "She never told her love, and at the close of the act she was forced to appear before the curtain in response to enthusiastic applause.

An excellent company supports Miss Wainwright. Barton Hill and William F. Owen are the "Malvolio" and "Sir Toby," the latter's personation of the deep-drinking, rufous-cheeked knight being perfect.

The costumes, furniture and much of the scenery used were designed for the original New York production. Economically therefore, the production was a notable one. It is to be regretted that the audience was not larger. The sale of seats indicated that even standing room would be in demand, but when the curtain rose there were still vacant seats in the parquette, although the orchestra and balcony were well filled.

Miss Wainwright plays for the remainder of the week in Milwaukee, the Milwaukee engagement closing her season.

"An Irish Arab" a Success.

Saturday night there will be presented at the Myers one of the most successful farcical comedies of the present day, with the fun maker, Bobby Gaylor, at the head of the company. The production of "An Irish Arab" has played to the capacity of all houses visited so far, this season. Mr. Gaylor was at one time a variety actor. In his specialties, it is said, he compels the mirthful approbation of even the sticklers for legitimacy. He is said to read people away with their minds full of fancies of this quaint individual, whose simple humor and quizzical manner have set a crowded theater in a roar.

Why the Ideals Stranded.

The Boston Ideals left their disbandment to a railroad. The proprietors have brought suit against the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway company for $50,000 damages for breach of contract whereby the company was unable to reach Louisville from Peoria in time to give a performance, resulting in the loss of the receipts and bankruptcy of the company.

Play House Notes.

W. J. Gilmore's "Sea King" comes on May 2.

"Ole Oleson," the Norwegian comedy, is underlined on the opera house books for April 30.

Louis Morrison will produce Faust on an elaborate scale, before a Janesville audience May 13.

Play goers are looking forward eagerly to the appearance of Frederick Ward on the opera house boards May 14.

It is to be regretted that one effective scene, the imprisonment of Malvolio, was omitted from last night's production.

Miss Wainwright will put herself under medical treatment as soon as she reaches Milwaukee. She has exhausted herself by over work, and fell fainting on the stage while superintending the placing of some properties yesterday afternoon.

AN EDITOR'S EXPERIENCE.

There is One Man Who Does Not Forget.

A newspaper can say nice and pleasant things about a man and his whole family for two long years, and then incur their lifetime enmity in one short week by a seeming slight. Yes, it is the fact; and you can burr for a candidate, back his friends, fuss his enemies and make a darn good of yourself all the way through, without a thank in the end. But there is one man that don't forget, and that's the man you opposed.—Exchange.

DEATH OF LEAF MOTHS.

Tobacco Growers Told of a Valuable Means of Relief.

Tobacco moths which have been the bane of tobacco growers' lives can be destroyed. At least so says Frank Broughton. Broughton declares that a bed of petunias planted near a tobacco bed will invite the moth from the tobacco and cause them to light on the petunias where they can be destroyed. They fly just at nightfall and can be killed at that time with wooden paddles.

SEEK A LOWER LICENSE.

Saloon Men Working Among Aldermen in Hope of Sympathy.

A number of saloon keepers are quietly at work endeavoring to create sympathy in their behalf, in an effort to get a single two hundred dollar license granted. They find very little to encourage them. That question was emphatically settled at the late election, and there is no just grounds for hedging at this time.

PLAN A CHURCH SCHOOL.

Members of St. Mary's Church Ready for Action.

COMMITTEES ARE AT WORK.

They Will Report Next Sunday on the Advantages of Erecting a Building to Accommodate a Parochial School. Plans and Preliminary Estimates.

The members of St. Mary's church and congregation are agitating and taking the preliminary steps to build a handsome and commodious school house in connection with their church. Committees have been appointed to investigate the matter, secure plans and ascertain the cost of a two story building to be located on the corner of Prospect avenue and Wisconsin street. The committees have obtained several plans and rough estimates for the proposed new building, and will probably submit their report to the congregation on Sunday next.

"It is not known as yet just what we will do," said one of the leading members of the society. "You see many of the members of St. Mary's church live in the country, too far away to be benefited by a parochial school located at the church. These members, of course, are not expected to favor expending much money on a school house. The members residing in the city favor building, however, but are not wholly united on just the kind of a building. Some favor building a handsome school house, to cost between five and eight thousand dollars. Others think an ordinary frame or brick veneered building will do, one with a school room on the ground floor and a hall in the second story. While Father Roche favors increasing our school facilities, he will not crowd the matter, but will not according to the expressed will of the majority.

"I think the time has come," he continued, "for our society to take some definite action towards building a school house. It is a question we have talked about for some time, and I think it ought to be settled now. Therefore I conclude that the committee will make their report on Sunday, and some action will likely be taken by the congregation. Should it be decided to build, we have a society that will take hold of the matter and push it right along until the school house is completed and paid for."

PROF. TEMPLE IN CHICAGO.

The Eccentric Janesville Musician Causes a Sensation in a Hotel.

Professor Alfred Temple is attracting as much attention in Chicago as he did in Janesville. According to the Herald he strolled into the main parlor of the Grand Pacific yesterday afternoon. On the back of his head was jammed a battered brown derby hat. A long, ulster-like overcoat of a dingy brown came nearly to his feet and on his hands were brown gloves from which the fingers were trying to escape. Between his fingers he carried a cigar which smelled rankly unto heaven. He seated himself at the piano and in an untidy manner began to play. From the piano rolled "Johnny, Get Your Gun," and other choice selections. His exhibition ended with "Annie Rooney."

In the next parlor the Baptist Theological Seminary trustees were holding a meeting, and more than one horrified face appeared at the door in protest. But they played on. The "Miserere" was attacked, as was also grand opera. A colored bell boy came along then and told him to get out. He was met with a Chesterfieldian wave of the hand. He gathered up several items before they took him by the collar and hustled him down stairs.

A SMALL BOY TOURIST.

He Squelched a Ticket Seller and Scoffed at a Drummer.

A little boy wearing a cap and carrying a big market basket walked up to the ticket office at the St. Paul depot this morning and, standing on his tiptoes, asked for a ticket to Rockford.

"How old are you sonny?" was asked him.

"Six years."

"You're pretty young to travel alone, aren't you?"

"I ain't alone, there are lots of people up here."

"When I was a little boy like you," said a commercial tourist reprovingly, "my parents wouldn't think of letting me travel alone."

"Well, your folks had probably sized you up, and didn't dare chance it," said the boy as he clambered upon the train.

"We raise a different breed of boys in Janesville."

His office is as well as his residence is in the second floor of the building occupied by E. Hall, 55 Milwaukee street, and is commodious as well as attractive. Dr. Edden returned to Janesville after a year in the Railway Brotherhood Hospital in Chicago. Five years before that he spent with Dr. W. H. Judd, and is well equipped for the practice of his profession.

STREETS WET WITH MILK.

Runaway Horses Scatter a Dairy Outfit With Little Ceremony.

West Milwaukee street was made livelier this morning by two runaways. First, the "Star Dairy No. 1" wagon came down the street at a rapid gait. In front of Ryan's saloon it collided with a light buggy belonging to C. C. McLean, smashing two wheels of the McLean buggy. Milk was distributed in large and small quantities regardless of mess or tickets. The horses kept on down the street, turning the corner at River street, north, at which place they completely wrecked the dairy outfit. The horses were then captured.

The other runaway was a horse affair, down the same street. The only thing connected with this runaway work of notice, was the very narrow escape from striking other vehicles as the runaway turned into River street. No serious damage resulted.

TALES OF THE TOWN.

Hannah Sims.

Hannah Sims died at her home in Afton Wednesday evening at midnight, aged 85 years. Mrs. Sims was attacked some days ago with grip, which, added to the infirmities of her advanced age, proved too much for her frail constitution. She was an old resident of the county, and had many friends who will grieve at the learning of her demise.

Besides her husband, George Sims, a family of five children survive her, they being Mrs. Pamela S. Treat, of Afton; C. F. and G. S. Sims, of Alexandria, Minnesota; E. W. Sims, of Madison, Nebraska; L. G. Sims, of Roscoe, South Dakota.

The funeral will be held from the residence in Afton at one o'clock Friday afternoon.

THOMAS LAPPIN'S WILL.

It Leaves His Property in Executors' Hands.

NO DIVISION IS ORDERED.

After Paying All Debts a Monument is To Be Built—The Remainder of the Income Is To Be Divided Among the Family.

The will of the late Thomas Lappin has been admitted to probate in the Rock county court. The document is somewhat different from the ordinary will, especially the will of a person holding such an amount of realty. The main point in the will will illustrate the chief desire of Mr. Lappin during his life time—to pay every debt. The will gives Mrs. Lappin one thousand dollars a year from the income of the estate. The remainder of the income goes toward paying his debts. After paying this indebtedness the income from the estate is to be divided among his children, and finally the estate is divided among his grand children, share and share alike.

He also provides for the erection of a suitable monument in the family lot at Oak Hill, but this must not be done until every debt is paid. He appointed Edwin F. Carpenter and Ed. M. Hyzer, as the executors of his will, but Mr. Hyzer declined to qualify, leaving Mr. Carpenter the sole executor.

The will is unique in that the testator finally divides his estate equally among his grandchildren, share and share alike.
